Love, My Divine

It's an exciting time to be Australian wine drinker. That's because there has never been a time when more amazing wine was being produced than right now.

We've worked with the newest and brightest Australian winemakers ever since our inception, twelve years ago. At that time we had something of a mission statement about the types of wine that we wanted to list. We gave preference to wines that were lower in alcohol and oak, and wines that had complexity that transcended simple fruity flavours. We praised freshness over richness.

So imagine how happy we are now, having witnessed a whole generation of young, passionate Australian winemakers striving towards those same goals. The Minimal Interventionist movement, or the Lo-Fi movement — call it whatever you like, more and more winemakers are striving towards making wines as purely as possible. They are working their grapes organically or biodynamically, and using as little artifice in the winery as possible.

More than that, they are making wines that are delicious. No dogma has ever come before this simple fact: delicious wines are better than gross wines, regardless of any inherent virtue imbued during the growing of the grapes or the making of the wine.

Put simply, here is a list of delicious Australian wines, enhanced by the inclusion of a few international ring-ins, which we've included as benchmarks against which the quality of the Australian wines will become all the more evident.

Love,

Dave, Cal, Miriam, Olivia, Sujana, Matt and Nate.

SPARKLING

In the past few years, the quality of Australian sparkling wine has matured to the point where the best of our wines easily outshine the entry-level cuvées of the major Champagne houses. The cooler climates of Tasmania have perhaps received the most praise from the mainstream wine press, but the quality of Australian sparkling across the country has never been higher. Other producers simply want to give as much bubbly refreshment as possible and have taken to simpler production methods to side-step the expense of creating the next generation of Champagne-killers. This is the time of ascendance for the humble pet-nat.

PETILLANT NATUREL

Wines are bottled before they finish primary fermentation. As they finish, the carbon dioxide that would normally be expelled is trapped in the bottle. Unfiltered, fruity, and often a bit wild.

CHAMPAGNE

Yes, we have an Australian wine focus, but we'd be fools for not admitting that there are certain wine styles that are incredible. We certainly wouldn't want to get in the way of anyone experiencing these wines. Maybe in another hundred years we'll have found a site in Australia that rivals Champagne, but for now, these wines are the apogee of sparkling wine.

RIESLING

Riesling is not only one of the greatest joys of the known world, it is also one of the most maligned and misunderstood.

So in the interests of humanity and the patrons of this bar, we present some simple, objective and irrefutable facts on this most refreshing and delicious of beverages.

1. Riesling is the best drink in this bar.
2. Riesling is the best drink in any bar.
3. Up until the early 20th Century, Rieslings were the most expensive wines in the world.
4. Today, Riesling is the best value wine in the universe.
5. Riesling runs the entire spectrum of the sweetness spectrum – from bone dry to super sugary.
6. Made correctly, a Riesling's sweetness and acidity should be in perfect harmony.
(That means sweeter styles should have loads of acid, keeping them super-fresh.)
7. Sweeter styles that lack this acidity will never be seen in this bar and in fact have no right to call themselves Rieslings. They bring shame and sadness to all true Riesling lovers.
8. Sweeter Rieslings are typically low in alcohol, meaning you can drink even more.
(which, given how easy they are to drink, is a huge bonus).
9. There are several unconfirmed reports of Rieslings curing the terminally ill. Seriously.
10. Australian Riesling is continually diversifying and improving – the best are among the best in the world.

PINOTS BLANC, GRIS AND GRIGIO

You may have guessed by the names – Pinot Blanc, Pinot Gris and Pinot Noir are all basically the same grape. They're mutations of each other, actually – with Pinot Noir probably being the original. Pinot Gris and Grigio are exactly the same grape. Locally, if a bottle is labelled Pinot Gris, it is likely paying homage to the French style and will tend towards richness. Italian-inspired Pinot Grigio on the other hand is typically bone-dry and crisp – as is its brother Pinot Blanc.

A new style of Pinot Gris / Grigio has been gaining in popularity in a big way over the past few years – a skin contact style that takes on a gorgeous pink hue from the grape's naturally pink skin (because Pinot Gris is actually not truly a white or a red grape, but a pink one.)

We've chosen to group Gewürztraminer and Grüner Veltliner here, too, for the sake of brevity.

SAUVIGNON BLANC, CHENIN BLANC, SEMILLON

Poor Sauvignon and Chenin Blancs. Wines that are so delicious and refreshing in their native Loire Valley — what did you ever do to deserve your poor treatment here in Australia for all these years? Sauvignon Blanc, made in a style that was neither mineral, nor fruity, but instead something often described as grassy. As if the taste of grass was ever a thing to aspire towards. We were just happy it didn't taste like Marlborough.

And noble Chenin, for so long the unnamed partner of the Margaret River 'Classic Dry White', that classic Western Australian lunch wine, designed to be consumed several bottles at a time.

Things have changed to a large degree. Australian Chenin often still has an austerity similar to Semillon that lends itself to oysters and aperitivo. But many makers are now creating Sauvignon equal to all but France's best.

Our Semillon continues to be our unsung hero: a wine style unique to Australia, capable of ageing for decades and utterly unlike anything made overseas – low in alcohol, thrilling in its acidity.

MEDITERRANEAN AND OTHER INTERESTING WHITES

It makes sense that grapes that have seen growing in Europe for hundreds of years have become particularly well adapted to their environment. So, if we identified wine regions here at home with similar climates to regions in Europe, the grapes from said European regions have a pretty good chance of being suited to our regions, right? This line of thinking has seen some fairly dramatic shifts in which grapes are being planted in this country. In particular it has seen increased plantings of Southern French, Italian and Spanish grapes because these regions match well with the warmth and dryness of our sunburnt country.

CHARDONNAY

The greatest grapes in the wine world earn that title for being able to best transmit where they are from. And Chardonnay is arguably the greatest of the white grapes. When you taste a super-dry, steely wine from Chablis, or a Meursault that smells of oatmeal, hazelnuts and a struck match, the wine could be from nowhere else. The same can be said for one of Dave Bicknell's Yarra Valley Chardonnays – again, struck match, but leaner and tighter, more in the style of Puligny-Montrachet; or Joe Holyman's Tamar Valley flagship – all white peach, cinnamon, almond and pith. Once big, fat and buttery; then skinny, anaemic and acidic; Australian Chardonnay is now in its Goldilocks phase, where it has flavour but also freshness – bold and svelte in equal measure.

ORANGE WINES

Why 'Orange' wine?

1. It's a delicious beverage that has an orange colour (although in reality the colour can range from yellow to orange, to brown, to pink).
2. It's made from grapes (white ones). And never from oranges.
3. It's not usually from the town of Orange, but there's no reason it couldn't be.
4. It is made by leaving the white grape skins in contact with the pressed juice (in much the same way that red wines are made by macerating the red grape skins with the clear juice to get their red colour).
5. The maceration tends to give the wine more texture and an aroma and flavour that is at least different to white wine, and is in many cases arguably superior because of the added complexity from the skins.
6. Some wine regions are defined by their production of Orange wine, particularly Georgia, and Italy's North-Eastern Friuli. Nowhere locally has yet taken this mantle. But there is still time. We'd put money on the Adelaide Hills.

ROSÉ WINES

Rosé is wine made from red grapes that are pressed so lightly that only a touch of colour is extracted from the grape skins. It's actually fairly rare for rosé to be made by adding red and white wine – that tends to only ever happen at teenage birthday parties and in the cellars of natural winemakers.

The amount of maceration the skins have with the juice in the wine – along with the variety of the grapes used – is the main factor that determines the colour of the wine – and despite what anyone tells you, more colour in no way signifies more sweetness. However, darker wines will typically have fruitier flavours, more akin to red wines, and paler wines will have flavours closer to white wines – hence, they match better with seafood. And for the record, no rosés with residual sugar will ever land on this list. They are, without exception, gross.

RED WINES

PINOT NOIR

---

It is heartening to see how far we have come with Australian Pinot Noir – because no red wine is as perfect, balanced and haunting as a great Pinot. There is good reason why the best red Burgundy wines are consistently the most expensive in the world. It is a grape that needs a particular place to show its best and a particularly benevolent hand to let it best express that place. In Burgundy, that is probably best achieved by the Domaine de la Romanée Conti. In Australia, few would argue against Bass Phillip's right to the throne, although every other producer below is producing a remarkable, distinctive style.

NOUVE-AUS AND OTHER LIGHT, UNUSUAL REDS

Nouveau wines are red wines made for the purpose of quenching thirst. Hence the other French term for them: Vin de Soif – ‘Wines of Thirst’. The term Nouveau comes from the fact that they are rushed to market, hitting Parisian streets only a couple of months after harvest.

Here, it's a bit easier to get wines into wine bars the same year as they're picked, given that we pick our grapes six months earlier. But the style remains the same: carbonic, fresh and fruity. No oak, just generosity and juiciness.

The best makers have realised that the complexity that is often lost due to the quick Carbonic Maceration can often be reintroduced by blending several grapes: often of different colour and opposing characteristics. Others are simply interpreting the gorgeous wines of Beaujolais. Ask for these to be chilled if the feeling strikes.

THE CABERNETS (AND MERLOT)

Yep, this is currently a very short section. That's because nobody ever drinks Cabernet Sauvignon, or Merlot – and only sommeliers drink Cabernet Franc. Blame Sideways, or consumer preferences for wines with less tannin, wines that drink better earlier in their lifespan. Just don't blame us. We'd love to have more wines here. Buy some and maybe we will. Because there's still a beauty to these wines; their lean, taut structures, their aromas of blackcurrant, cedar and tobacco. Their ability to age indefinitely, forever increasing in complexity, becoming silkier, lighter, more ethereal, more delicious.

GRENACHE, SHIRAZ, MOURVÈDRE, CARIGNAN, CINSAULT

There's a lot of wine in this section. A lot of different grapes, too. But there's a good reason to group them all together. To make sense of it all, we look back to France. And in particular to the Rhône Valley.

The Northern Rhône Valley is the land of Syrah, or Shiraz, as it's called here in Australia for a reason that is honestly impossible to identify.

Further south, you have the Southern Rhône Valley. There you find wines typically made from a blend of three or more grapes – Grenache, Syrah and Mourvèdre (which we often call Mataro – again, inexplicably). This is the basis of all GSM blends in Australia. It's worth noting that the South Australian climate, where most of these GSM wines are made, is fairly close to that of the Southern Rhône. Victoria, incidentally, is far closer to the climate of the Northern Rhône, hence why the Shiraz there is more commonly labeled Syrah and tastes more like pepper and black olives. The third French region in these pages is the even warmer Languedoc–Roussillon, which is basically the French McLaren Vale.

ITALIAN + SPANISH

There are many who believe that Southern Italian grapes are destined to play an ever greater role in the Australian wine landscape. So, if that's the case, why is it that everyone is most excited by Nebbiolo?

It's because it is our generation's Pinot Noir – that grape that was once thought impossible to bring to its fullest expression outside of its homeland. And just as we now produce some sublime expressions of Pinot Noir, so shall we do the same with the tricky, homesick 'Nebb'. Below are some of the forerunners, as well as a selection of other makers who are producing styles of Sangiovese, Schiopettino and Nero d'Avola that are among the best of their kind. A special shout out goes to the Chalmers family, who have been so instrumental in cultivating the majority of Italian varieties in Australia and so generously allowing young winemakers to use their cuttings and vineyards.

LARGE FORMAT

What good is a wine bar without big bottles to share? Nebuchadnezzar, Balthazar, Methuselah, Jeroboam; these biblical kings of ancient times have lent their names to some of the largest formats of wine available today. While it might be beyond us to polish off any of these immense volumes of vino alone (wine bottles can be up to 40 litres!) we're of the opinion that bigger is better when it comes to spending time enjoying wine with excellent company. We'll be adding more to this section regularly, so keep your eyes peeled. Here are a few magnums of liquid joy for you and yours to get the party going.
